The School for Life in Chiang Mai received this week some international guests who look into the possibility of supporting the school in the future with sponsoring and/or activities and workshops.

John and Cynthia Hardy arrived from Bali together with Brad Choy who all visited the School for Life for the first time. They were welcomed by Prof. Dr. Juergen Zimmer and his team and more importantly they were welcomed by 150 children from The School for Life. Together they celebrated a fun evening with music and dances and the performing group of the children showing their talents with their professional drumming piece "Drums of victory" with which they have in the past already won some awards. John and Cynthia Hardy are looking into the possibility of opening a School for Life in Bali, using Prof. Zimmer's concept of entrepreneurial education.

Other guests arriving at the School for Life were Kate Merkle and Nadja Auermann, an internationally known super model from Germany. During their visit in Chiang Mai they will learn about the culture and the history of the north with its tradition and specialties. Nadja has kindly agreed to be the international ambassador for School for Life promoting it on her travels around the world. Using the influence of the northern culture they will return in November for an extended visit to work with the children of the School for Life in a workshop called "Ethnic Fashion" and design school uniforms.
